II WORKSHOP OVIEDO 12 - 13 NOVEMBER

ARCHAEOLOGY OF COMMONS: MANAGEMENT, PROPERTY RIGHT AND GOVERNANCE.

The areas of joint use known as commons have been essential for the economy of local communities. Their dismantling, survival or transformation have led to useful historiographical debates in recent years. Archeology and anthropology have focused lately on their study, developing lines of work to examine how they are used, bring a complex view of the different property and management rights, and qualify institutional interpretations. All of these points of view will be discussed in these symposiums.
